Alabama rises to top seed in College Football Playoff bracket projection

Paul Myerberg

USA TODAY

Georgia falls out of the top spot in the USA TODAY Sports College Football Playoff bracket projection but stays inside the 12-team field after dropping the thriller at Alabama.

The win is enough to vault the Crimson Tide to No. 1, given the strong probability the playoff selection committee puts the eventual SEC champion as the highest-ranked seed.

Coming out of a 28-0 hole to take the lead late in the fourth quarter Saturday night makes this a strong loss for the Bulldogs. Looking down the line, one-loss Georgia would reach the SEC championship game with a chance to secure a top-four seed; in that case, the Bulldogs would be in the field regardless of what happens in a possible rematch with the Tide.

The odds of a playoff berth get fuzzi-er when you add another loss, though. That Alabama's offense was able to find flaws against an unfailingly elite defense — the Tide gained 547 yards after the Bulldogs had allowed 606 yards through three games — could spell real trouble for Georgia in three enormous SEC matchups against No. 1 Texas, No. 4 Tennessee and No. 12 Ole Miss.

While currently in the bracket, the Bulldogs have to button things up defensively and get quarterback Carson Beck back on track to avoid a second playoff miss in two years. The first four teams out of the field include two from the SEC in Missouri and Ole Miss along with Notre Dame and Michigan.

There are obvious front-runners in three of the Power Four leagues as the regular season reaches October. Alabama is atop the SEC. Ohio State leads the Big Ten. Miami stays in front in the

WILL MCLELLAND/IMAGN IMAGES

ACC after surviving a serious scare against Virginia Tech.

But the Big 12 remains very hard to predict. Kansas State was in the lead before losing at BYU. Utah took over before Saturday's loss to Arizona. The Utes really need quarterback Cam Rising to get back into the starting lineup.

Another team that has quietly surged up the rankings is Iowa State. The Cyclones have a very strong non-conference win at Iowa but have yet to dig into the meat of Big 12 play. In fact, they may stay off the radar until later in the year, with games against the Utes and Kansas State to end the regular season.

For now, Kansas State's convincing win against Oklahoma State moves the Wildcats back into the top spot while Iowa State replaces Utah as an at-large team.

Lurking outside the field are plenty of contenders from power leagues: Southern Cal, Missouri, Michigan, LSU, Notre Dame and even Ole Miss after last week's loss to Kentucky. Missouri is the unbeaten among this group but there are enough games in front of all of them to win their way into the field.

Four teams to watch

SMU

Now 4-1 after a blowout of Florida State, SMU is exceeding early expectations as new members of the ACC. A huge, must-win matchup at Louisville comes this Saturday. A victory there would put the Mustangs on the path to the conference title game, especially given that they miss Miami and Clemson during the regular season.

Indiana

Chew on this: Indiana is 5-0 for the first time since the program last won the Big Ten and reached the Rose Bowl in 1967. With Northwestern, Nebraska, Washington and Michigan State ahead, the Hoosiers are in position to climb the playoff rankings before playing Michigan and Ohio State in early November.

Boise State

UNLV earned the top spot in the Group of Five after obliterating Fresno State with a new quarterback, Hajj-Malik Williams, in place of Matthew Sluka. But Boise State can't be ignored after a 45-17 win against previously unbeaten Washington State. The Broncos go to UNLV on Oct. 25 in what may be the biggest game of the regular season in the Group of Five.

Army and Navy

Both service academies are 4-0 for the first time since 1945, with each already posting three wins in American Athletic play to rank atop the early conference standings. Navy has been particularly good on offense, ranking fifth nationally in yards per play, fifth in rushing yards per game and ninth in scoring. Army has won every game by at least 17 points.

Kraken's Campbell makes debut as female NHL coach

Cydney Henderson and Mike Brehm

Jessica Campbell is in a league of her own.

The Seattle Kraken hired Campbell in July as an assistant coach, making her the first female full-time assistant coach behind the bench in NHL history.

She received applause when she was introduced at Climate Pledge Arena on Tuesday as she took her place during the Kraken's season opener against the St. Louis Blues in Seattle.

"The moment leading up to the game and stepping on the bench ... I'm really going to try to honor what it is, because I know, and I definitely understand that the magnitude and the importance of this moment is really important for our game," Campbell said ahead of the game.

Campbell drew up the play on the bench as Seattle tried to tie the score, but they ultimately lost to the Blues 3-2. Head coach Dan Bylsma pointed out the silver lining: "Jessica being a female coach in the NHL for the first time, it's great for her and it's great for the game."

Campbell described Tuesday as "a normal day in terms of my work," but she noted the significance of her new role. "For me, it's just a normal day in terms of my work, in terms of my routine, in terms of all of those pieces," she said. "I never want to diminish the things that I'm doing because I'm so focused on the task at hand, but I also know that being focused on the task at hand has allowed me to get to this moment and is going to continue. So, I have to stay focused on what matters most, which is the guys and the team and the success that we want to have."

Campbell, 32, made similar history in the American Hockey League when Bylsma hired her as an assistant with the Coachella Valley Firebirds in 2022. Bylsma, a former Stanley Cup winner, brought Campbell with him after he was named Kraken coach in May. Coachella Valley reached the AHL's Calder Cup Finals the past two seasons.

Campbell previously was an assistant and skills coach in 2021-22 for the Nürnberg Ice Tigers in Germany's top professional men's league. She also was an assistant coach for Germany at the 2022 world championships.

"Hopefully somebody else will have a door held open for them versus them having to push it open and find ways to unlock it," Campbell said. "I look at the other women around me and other people in the industry doing their piece and doing a fantastic job of it. And it's part of a movement. It's part of, I think, really important change. Anytime you have different people in the room, you get different and good outcomes; you get unique outcomes."

Campbell played from 2010 to 2014 at Cornell, captaining the team her senior year. She played professionally in Canada and Sweden and was MVP of the 2010 under-18 world championships as Canada won gold.

Young forward scores 1st goal in Utah HC history

Mike Brehm
USA TODAY

The Utah Hockey Club didn't need long to get the first goal in franchise history, and it was scored by a player who will be a big part of the team's future.

Forward Dylan Guenther gave Utah a 1-0 lead less than five minutes into the club's season opener Tuesday night at the Delta Center in Salt Lake City and later added an empty-netter for a 5-2 victory against the Chicago Blackhawks. He ripped a one-timer past Blackhawks goalie Petr Mrazek for the first goal after being set up by Logan Cooley and Michael Kesselring.

Guenther, 21, who's entering his third season in the NHL, recently signed an eight-year extension worth more than $57 million. His goals were the 25th and 26th of his career in his 79th NHL game.

Utah is technically a first-year NHL team. Utah Jazz owners Ryan and Ashley Smith acquired the hockey assets of the Arizona Coyotes, who became an inactive franchise. The deal was done in April, so it was a quick turnaround to opening night with an official nickname still in the works.

Guenther made sure Utah got off to a good start. Newly named captain Clayton Keller also scored in the first period and offseason acquisition Mikhail Sergachev set up Barrett Hayton for a 3-0 lead in the second period.

Teravainen and Nick Foligno. But Guenther's empty-netter put the game away and Lawson Crouse scored later for the franchise's first win.

"It's been a pretty crazy day, the first game in franchise history," Keller told ESPN. "We had butterflies all day and we couldn't wait to get out on the ice. The crowd was amazing and I thought the guys played pretty hard and it was nice to get the win at home."
