MLS ALL-STARS 30 YEARS LATER

Propelling soccer forward in USA

Safid Deen and Ramon Padilla USA TODAY

It's a rare all-star game that reflects a league's evolution, but that's what this year's MLS show-case offers.

On the night of July 23, two dozen MLS players were set to step onto the field at Q2 Stadium in Austin, Texas, and offer a snapshot of the league's progress.

Although the MLS All-Stars may not defeat their counterparts from Mexico's Liga MX, the league's upward trajectory is clear. Since its inaugural season in 1996, just two years after the United States hosted the men's 1994 World Cup, MLS has steadily grown alongside the nation's rising interest in soccer.

Over the past three decades, global icons such as Carlos Valderrama, David Beckham, Thierry Henry and Zlatan Ibrahimović have brought star power and credibility to the league, helping shape its identity and elevate its global standing.

But none has been as transformational as Lionel Messi, who is on this year's all-star roster. In July 2023, he joined Inter Miami, a club that played its first game in 2020. The Argentine World Cup champion not only quickly improved the team's profile and record, but he also elevated global awareness of the MLS because of his worldwide celebrity.

How much has the MLS grown since its debut in 1996?

Even before Messi's arrival, MLS had been on the upswing. With 12.2 million fans attending games last year, MLS was the second-highest-attended global soccer league in the world, behind only the English Premier League.

MLS has a far reach with teams located across the U.S.

Since 1996, the league has tripled in size. San Diego FC became the 30th MLS club before the 2025 season, compared with just 10 clubs when the league debuted.

The number of soccer-specific stadiums is growing in the USA

All 30 MLS clubs have their own facility, and 26 are soccer-specific. Three franchises will open new stadiums in the next three years (Inter Miami in 2026, New York City FC in 2027 and Chicago Fire in 2028). It's a far cry from 1996, when there were no stadiums and no club training facilities.

Some MLS franchises crack $1 billion mark

Another significant area of growth has been franchise value: Five MLS teams are valued at more than $1 billion, and 14 others are among the top 50 most valuable soccer clubs in the world, according to Sportico.

Los Angeles FC ($1.28 billion), Inter Miami ($1.19 billion), LA Galaxy ($1.11 billion), Atlanta United ($1.08 billion) and New York City FC ($1 billion) are the most valuable MLS franchises.

MLS has succeeded in drawing international talent

When the league made its debut in 1996, most of the 239 active players were American.

The majority today are still American, but the league is drawing more international talent.

MLS Cup championships by team

D.C. United won the MLS Cup in the first season; since then, 15 teams have won the title.

"I think our league is going to continue to grow," Major League Soccer Commissioner Don Garber told USA TODAY Sports before the 2025 season began.

"Every time I'm asked that question, and I say, 'Here's what it will look like five years from now.' I underestimate where we're going to be.

"At some point we're going to be celebrating just generations of Major League Soccer for fans here in the United States, Canada and around the world that love our league."

MLS at 30

Our 48-page special edition commemorates 30 years of Major League Soccer, from its best players to key milestones and championship dynasties to the narrative behind how it has tripled in size over its existence. We track the most influential international arrivals, attendance growth, the stadium movement that has swept the league and how MLS fandom is growing faster among Hispanics than any other demographic group. We take a closer look at how David Beckham and Lionel Messi have lifted it to new heights and catch up with Tom Braun, the chief operating officer of the LA Galaxy and how he's creating a family-friendly extravaganza at games. Plus, MLS has gone from no programming for kids to a feeder system that creates future pros. Where might your son or daughter fit into its offerings? And what exciting steps are next for the league with the men's World Cup arriving next summer? You can buy the edition on a newsstand or order it at onlinestore.usatoday.com

Debtor: LifeScan Global Corporation, et al., EIN: 83-0531872
United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Texas
Case number: Case No. 25-90259 (ARP). Date case filed for chapter 11: 07/15/2025
Official Form 309F1 (For Corporations or Partnerships)

Notice of Chapter 11 Bankruptcy Case 10/20

For the debtor listed above, a case has been filed under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. An order for relief has been entered.

This notice has important information about the case for creditors and debtors, including information about the meeting of creditors and deadlines.

The filing of the case imposed an automatic stay against most collection activities. This means that creditors generally may not take action to collect debts from the debtor or the debtor's property. For example, while the stay is in effect, creditors cannot sue, assert a deficiency, repossess property, or otherwise try to collect from the debtor. Creditors cannot demand repayment from the debtor by mail, phone, or otherwise. Creditors who violate the stay can be required to pay actual and punitive damages and attorney's fees.

Confirmation of a chapter 11 plan may result in a discharge of debt. A creditor who wants to have a particular debt excepted from discharge may be required to file a complaint in the bankruptcy clerk's office within the deadline specified in this notice. (See line 11 below for more information.)

To protect your rights, consult an attorney. All documents filed in the case may be inspected at the bankruptcy clerk's office at the address listed below or through PACER (Public Access to Court Electronic Records) at <https://pacer.uscourts.gov>.

The staff of the bankruptcy clerk's office cannot give legal advice.

6. Meeting of creditors: Not yet set. Telephone Conference: To be provided. The debtor's representative must attend the meeting to be questioned under oath. Creditors may attend, but are not required to do so. The meeting may be continued or adjourned to a later date. If so, the date will be on the court docket.

7. Proof of claim deadline: Deadline for filing proof of claim: Not yet set.

A proof of claim is a signed statement describing a creditor's claim. A proof of claim form may be obtained at www.uscourts.gov or any bankruptcy clerk's office.

Your claim will be allowed in the amount scheduled unless: your claim is designated as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated; you file a proof of claim in a different amount; or you receive another notice.

If your claim is not scheduled or if your claim is designated as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated, you must file a proof of claim or you might not be paid on your claim and you might be unable to vote on a plan. You may file a proof of claim even if your claim is scheduled. You may review the schedules at the bankruptcy clerk's office or online at <https://pacer.uscourts.gov>.

Secured creditors retain rights in their collateral regardless of whether they file a proof of claim. Filing a proof of claim submits a creditor to the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court, with consequences a lawyer can explain. For example, a secured creditor who files a proof of claim may surrender important nonmonetary rights, including the right to a jury trial.

8. Exception to discharge deadline: If § 523(c) applies to your claim and you seek to have it excepted from discharge, you must start a judicial proceeding by filing a complaint by the deadline stated below. Filing a proof of claim does not constitute a complaint and any required filing fee by the following deadline. Deadline for filing the complaint: Not yet set.

9. Creditors with a foreign address: If you are a creditor receiving notice mailed to a foreign address, you may file a motion asking the court to extend the deadlines in this notice. Consult an attorney familiar with United States bankruptcy law if you have any questions about your rights in this case.

10. Filing a Chapter 11 bankruptcy case: Chapter 11 allows debtors to reorganize or liquidate according to a plan. A plan is not effective unless the court confirms it. You may receive a copy of the plan and a disclosure statement telling you about the plan, and you may have the opportunity to vote on the plan. You will receive notice of the date of the confirmation hearing, and you may object to confirmation of the plan and attend the confirmation hearing. Unless a trustee is serving, the debtor will remain in possession of the property and may continue to operate its business.

11. Discharge of debts: Confirmation of a chapter 11 plan may result in a discharge of debts, which may include all or part of your debt. See 11 U.S.C. § 1141(d). A discharge means that creditors may never try to collect the debt from the debtor except as provided in the plan. If you want to have a particular debt owed to you excepted from the discharge and § 523(c) applies to your claim, you must start a judicial proceeding by filing a complaint and paying the filing fee in the bankruptcy clerk's office by the deadline.

Deion adjusts to new lifestyle after cancer

Brent Schrottenboer

USA TODAY

Colorado football coach Deion Sanders has been forced to learn a new way of living after having his bladder removed in May.

That includes certain issues involving his job:

"Can I make it through a game?" Sanders asked in a podcast with former Dallas Cowboys teammate Michael Irvin posted July 28.

While he said he never considered retiring from coaching, Sanders, 57, did think about the ways he'd need to work through his new health situation, which includes incontinence and a smaller, newly constructed bladder.

"I know I got halftime, but can I make it through a game?" Sanders said to Irvin. "What if there's a long quarter? OK, so I start thinking I gotta get a Porta Potty for the sideline."

To get a better sense of what Sanders will face as a college football coach in his recovery from bladder cancer, USA TODAY Sports discussed his situation with medical experts. These doctors are not treating the Pro Football Hall of Famer but described what life is like for a patient in his general situation. It won't be easy.

"You are heralded as one of the best athletes to play the game, and you peeing on yourself, man," Sanders said in the podcast.

But there also is reason to believe he won't be noticeably different on the sideline when Colorado opens the season against Georgia Tech on Aug. 29.

Sanders has a neobladder: What that means

After Sanders' cancerous bladder was removed in surgery, a new one was made for him from his small intestine. This is called a neobladder. It's different from having a catheter emptying urine into an external bag, though patients with new neobladders do use catheters and bags while the neobladder heals, as Sanders did.

A neobladder "has the advantage of not requiring an external appliance, as patients urinate through their native urethra," said Solomon Woldu, associate professor of urology at UT Southwestern Medical Center in Dallas.

Patients with neobladders still cannot urinate in a "normal" way, Woldu said. "Instead patients have to learn to empty their neobladder by using abdominal muscles to generate sufficient pressure on the neobladder to push the urine out. Some patients will not be able to do this efficiently and need to catheterize."

Sanders talked about his with Irvin. "You have to push through your stomach and force the pee out," Sanders said. "Like you can't just pee, and when you feel like you gotta go pee, you need to pee or you gonna start leaking."

What about portable toilets on the sideline?

Sanders said that with a sense of humor, but it speaks to the reality of his situation, specifically his loss of control over urination. One way he can deal with this situation is to wear Depend underwear for incontinence to absorb any leaking. Sanders even has a partnership with Depend and hopes to remove any shame of using it by raising awareness of it.

In the meantime, he's got newly installed plumbing that doesn't have the same capacity.

"You make the neobladder, and it's usually the size of a grapefruit," said Adam Kibel, the urology department chair at Mass General Brigham in Massachusetts. "Your (normal) bladder when it's filled is about two to three times the size of that. Over time it stretches it out, but what happens is it doesn't hold that much urine. So it reaches capacity very quickly."

Can he make it through a game?

A college football game can last four hours, sometimes in warm conditions. He might need water.

That's where the Depend garments come into play, as well as his halftime break and a possible portable toilet.

"Thank God for Depend," Sanders said.

Otherwise Sanders has worked on his overall physical stamina since surgery and might not be noticeably different on the sideline. He had to sit down during a game after leg surgeries to remove blood clots in 2023.

"If he's three to six months out, he should be in pretty good shape," Kibel said. "If he has incontinence, he can wear a garment."

Sanders is otherwise physically fit for someone his age and wants to use his situation to motivate others.

"If you're asking about the average person, I would say yeah, that's a big lift," Kibel said. "But my guess is he's going to do better than the average person."

Is Sanders using a catheter?

He did after his surgery, but it wasn't permanent. Sanders said before undergoing surgery he would have a catheter for about two weeks, according to a video posted by his eldest son, Deion Jr., on July 28. Another video posted by his son July 29 showed him with a tube from his stomach area draining red liquid into a bag. The footage was from May. He also went fishing with his bags at his estate in Texas during his recovery there in May and June.

"I'm just ready to be disconnected from all this so I can resume the normalcy of life," Sanders said in the video.

Recent videos show him walking around and functioning without being attached to a bag.

"He probably had a catheter in to allow the bladder to drain while it healed up, because you don't want it filling and stressing the suture line by having it increase in size and decrease in size," Kibel said.

Has Sanders beaten cancer?

Yes, according to his doctor, Janet Kukreja. He could have chosen to keep his bladder and treat it with chemotherapy. But that risked having the cancer spread. He chose to have it removed instead, eliminating the malignant tumor that had been discovered in a routine checkup and CT scan earlier this year. Sanders told Irvin his new bladder is "gonna get a little better" but also said, "This ain't gonna change."

Sleeping is a different challenge, he said, which includes putting towels down for any leaking.

"The actual surgery itself is pretty big surgery," Kibel said. "It's not a part of your body that's meant to be removed."

Cancer forced the issue. "When we hear that word, it's normally a life sentence attached to it," Sanders said. "But not this time."
