MEIJER LPGA CLASSIC

Woad's huge miss helps Yamashita win

Beth Ann Nichols
Golfweek | USA TODAY Network

It looked like Lottie Woad had the title in hand. After a brilliantly holed bunker shot for birdie on the 71st hole at the Meijer LPGA Classic, Woad carried a one-shot lead over Miyu Yamashita into the closing par 5 at Blythefield Country Club near Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Looking back, Woad wishes she had laid up. But she went for it on the 18th, and her third shot from the rough went a little too far past the hole. The former Florida State star needed a two-putt to win and instead lipped out from 3 feet, leaving everyone in shock.

Yamashita

The closing bogey sent Woad back to the 18th tee with Yamashita, a major champion looking for her third career title. It was an overtime battle between the No. 7 (Woad) and the eighth-ranked player in the world, a 13-time winner on the JLPGA.

"I honestly didn't expect it to end up in a playoff," said Yamashita, who birdied the 18th hole in regulation to get to 17 under.

At 4-foot-11, Yamashita, the shortest player on tour, came up big, getting up and down for birdie on the first extra hole to clinch the title. Yamashita was the hottest player all day, carding a closing 8-under 64 to come from five back.

Last year, after winning the AIG Women's British Open, Yamashita zoomed up the board from eight strokes back in Malaysia to win in a playoff. She grew emotional on Father's Day talking about her dad, who doubles as her instructor.

"This week I had really good feeling," said the 24-year-old Yamashita, "so I'm really happy to win."

Wei-Ling Hsu made three birdies and an eagle over her last seven holes at Blythefield Country Club to shoot 67 and take a share of third with China's Yan Liu.

Rookie Riley Smyth made her first cut of the season in her 10th start, taking a share of 12th to earn $51,880.

Woad, 22, hasn't yet been a pro for a full year and already has two LPGA titles to her credit, a top-10 ranking and likely a starring role on the 2026 European Solheim Cup team in the Netherlands.

"I'm already having nightmares about that," joked U.S. captain Angela Stanford, who was working in the booth for CBS.

NTT INDYCAR SERIES

Last to 1st: Lundgaard made 'right moves'

Zion Brown
The Indianapolis Star
USA TODAY Network

Christian Lundgaard celebrates after winning the XPEL Grand Prix at Road America on June 21 at Elkhart Lake. GARY C. KLEIN/USA TODAY NETWORK – WISCONSIN

ELKHART LAKE, WI – Arrow McLaren team principal Tony Kanaan gave Christian Lundgaard a pep talk on the starting grid before the Grand Prix at Road America. The message: Don't make life harder on yourself.

But the Danish driver failed to follow those instructions, and on the first lap of the race June 21, he drove his No. 7 Arrow McLaren Chevrolet into Scott Dixon's No. 9 Chip Ganassi Racing Honda, causing damage to Lundgaard's car.

Lundgaard dipped into pit lane on that first lap, as the No. 7 needed a new front wing and tires. It was crucial for Lundgaard's pit crew to operate quickly so that the car wouldn't get lapped, which it didn't. Still, it didn't seem likely – or even possible – that Lundgaard could make his way from last (25th) to first.

But as the 55-lap race on the 4.014-mile road course progressed, Lundgaard's car kept gaining speed and positions. With Lundgaard having an outside chance of a win, strategist Kyle Moyer decided to gamble.

While most of the race's leaders made their final pit stop three to four laps before Lundgaard – a decision influenced by IndyCar's new and cautious full-course yellow procedure – Moyer kept Lundgaard on track until lap 45, the fifth-latest pit stop in the race. After a brief pit stop due to Lundgaard not needing a full tank of gas to get to the end, he exited pit lane second, behind Marcus Armstrong and ahead of David Malukas.

That was when Lundgaard knew he was in the fight for the win.

"I think ultimately we made the right moves at the right time," Lundgaard said. "Staying out on that last pit sequence is what really gained us the win. But that's also the riskiest thing we could do because we're exposing ourselves to yellow (flags). That was win it or finish last at that time."

Malukas passed Lundgaard on Lundgaard's out lap since Malukas' tires were warmer. But Lundgaard got by Malukas on lap 49, leaving only Armstrong ahead of him.

Lundgaard didn't think he'd catch Armstrong, who Lundgaard felt "should have won this race." But Armstrong's No. 66 Honda engine began to fail on lap 52, allowing Lundgaard to pass Armstrong, whose car completely shut down on the next lap. Lundgaard held off Malukas following the restart to get his second win of the season.

Moyer, who is in his first full season as Arrow McLaren's team manager after being fired by Team Penske last May, made the call that paid dividends in the end. Moyer became the strategist on the No. 7 car this year, and he and Lundgaard have made an excellent pairing through 10 races.

"The one thing I have learned with Kyle is he's not afraid of taking risks," Lundgaard said. "I'm sure it's going to bite us someday. The more races we can win until then, the better. ... He's very aggressive, but he also knows exactly what he's doing. There's no question in his mind. Whenever he makes a mistake, he's honest about it, raises his hand. I think it helps the group move forward. There's never any unanswered questions."

After a 2025 season that saw Lundgaard succeed but come up short of wins on several occasions, the 24-year-old has taken the next step, getting another victory after winning the Sonsio Grand Prix on the IMS road course in May.

Up until the Sonsio Grand Prix, Pato O'Ward was the only driver to win a race for Arrow McLaren since McLaren Racing bought a stake in the team in 2020 and became the majority owner in 2021. This team has been built around O'Ward, who is the most popular driver in the series and has finished top five in five of his six seasons with the team.

But this year, Lundgaard has outperformed his highly regarded teammate, as Lundgaard is fourth in the championship while O'Ward is fifth and Lundgaard is the only Arrow McLaren driver to finish on the podium this season. In his second year at Arrow McLaren, Lundgaard – who is often forgotten among a talented crop of under-30 IndyCar drivers – has become a force.

"I think everything is going according to how I thought it would, right?" Lundgaard said. "First year in the team – obviously Pato is very established in there – it's trying to learn as much as possible together, make the package better. I feel like I've evolved a little bit. I think he's gone a little bit backwards, unfortunately, in terms of results. At the end of the day, I know how good he is."

Lundgaard is a pending free agent, and if it wasn't clear already, Sunday was another data point showing that Arrow McLaren should do all it can to keep him around. Kanaan previously said that he'd wait until after the Indianapolis 500 to talk extensions with Lundgaard and fellow free agent teammate Nolan Siegel, but those talks have not reached the formal stage, according to Lundgaard.

"I feel like right now we're more chitchatting, which is always fun as well," Lundgaard said on Friday. "I'm not worried at all from my own perspective. So we'll see how it goes, but obviously we've done great together, and I see that in the future too."

When asked about a potential extension after the race, Lundgaard said winning a race "never hurts" while grinning. If those talks between him and Arrow McLaren's have indeed been casual, it will be in the team's best interest to accelerate those talks with the driver who's tracking toward back-to-back seasons in the top five.

After winning the Sonsio Grand Prix, Lundgaard said, "I think we've unlocked the door now. I'm pretty confident many more will come." It took only four races for that next win to come after Lundgaard went winless in the last two seasons.

Lundgaard is here to stay as a threat to win, especially on road and street courses. He proved himself with consistent results in 2025, and this year he's proved himself as a winner.

It's Heim Time at Cup Series' Naval Base Coronado

Chris Vinel
The Daytona Beach (Florida) News-Journal
USA TODAY Network

Corey Heim adjusted his hat and stared across the temporary NASCAR track at Naval Base Coronado.

He had just concluded his postrace interview, and his expression said it all.

What the heck just happened?

In the Cup Series' first event at the active military facility on June 21, Heim prevailed from a late battle with Tyler Reddick. He claimed his first victory at NASCAR's highest level in the 13th start of his career. The 23-year-old part-timer for 23XI Racing led the final three laps on the 3.4-mile street course.

"I hope I don't wake up from this dream," Heim said. "I don't know. This is insane."

NASCAR's road king, Shane van Gisbergen, entered the weekend with about the lowest betting odds you'll ever see (-150). But a multiple-car crash ended his day on lap 32 and broke the race wide open. It featured 20 lead changes. Ryan Blaney led a race-best 12 laps.

In the final 10 laps, Heim and Reddick jostled up front. Heim overtook his 23XI teammate with some contact with three laps to go. With two laps remaining, Reddick blew a tire, contributing to Heim's 10.37-second margin of victory.

"Caught a couple breaks with some of the good guys wrecking out," Heim said. "But they don't ask how, just how many."

The answer is now one.

Heim captured the NASCAR Truck Series championship in 2025. He owns 26 victories across six seasons in that series, including three this year.

Last month, 23XI announced it was promoting Heim to the Cup level full-time in 2027.

Driving the No. 91 Chevrolet for Trackhouse Racing, former Formula 1 driver Kevin Magnussen finished 27th in his first NASCAR race but recorded the fastest lap of the day at 2:12.485.

BOOKS

Heat up your reading with USA TODAY's Summer Book Challenge

Clare Mulroy
USA TODAY

How are your summer reading plans looking?

Vacations and beach days are perfect for diving into a good book, and we're here to help you build the perfect TBR. USA TODAY's Book Challenge is back by popular demand, and you have a chance to win a $100 gift card to Bookshop.org. Our printable bingo card has categories across genres to expand your reading goals and is open now through Aug. 31.

Want to try your luck this round?

If you don't know where to start, USA TODAY has an entire starter pack of new genres and books to add to your shelf. Want a new, buzzy read? Check out our most anticipated summer books. Looking for something steamy? Try a cowboy romance or paranormal romance novel. For a story with adventure but lower stakes, read a cozy mystery or cozy fantasy. Or dip into viral obsessions such as "Dungeon Crawler Carl" and the LitRPG subgenre.

How to join USA TODAY's Summer Book Challenge

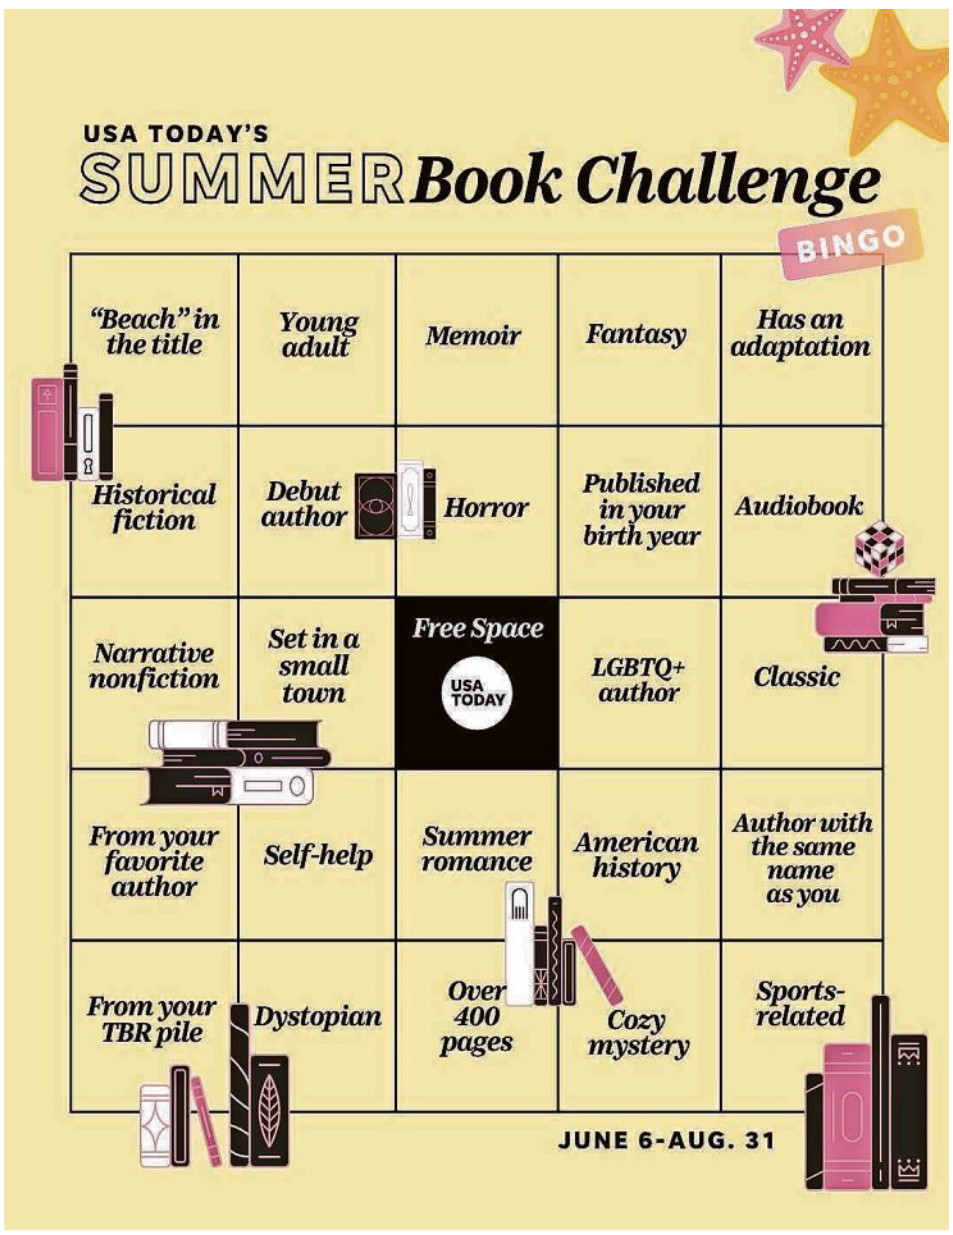

To submit your bingo card, fill out the online entry form at books.usatoday.com and let us know your contact information and what books you've read to complete the challenge. You also will find a printable version of the bingo board. Be sure to read instructions and fill the form out only once.

Anyone who submits a bingo card will be entered into a gift card giveaway. The winner will be notified via email within five business days after the drawing. You must be 18 or older to enter. Check out the full contest rules at books.usatoday.com.

The challenge includes intentionally varied bingo spaces so readers of all genres can participate. For example, you could read five books and clear the entire top row, or take advantage of the free space in the middle and check off four other boxes. Each box needs to correspond to a different title – no counting one book in multiple boxes! Books should be read during the contest entry period, June 6 to Aug. 31.

Here's an example of how I could fill it out:

- Narrative nonfiction: "London Falling" by Patrick Radden Keefe
- Set in a small town: "Into the Blue" by Emma Brodie
- Free space
- LGBTQ+ author: "John of John" by Douglas Stuart
- Classic: "Animal Farm" by George Orwell

STREAMING

'Every Year After' season finale has people talking

Erin Jensen
USA TODAY

Warning: this story contains spoilers from Season 1 of "Every Year After," now streaming on Prime Video.

After weathering such tempestuous waters at Barry's Bay, is smooth sailing in store?

"Every Year After," Prime Video's adaptation of Carley Fortune's beloved 2022 novel, "Every Summer After" (now streaming), depicts the slow-burning romance of teenage neighbors Percy Fraser (Sadie Soverall) and Sam Florek (Matt Cornett), its eventual demise and potential revival over eight episodes.

"It feels like their souls are kind of made of the same thing," Soverall, 24, tells USA TODAY.

"It feels like they're just constantly drawn back to each other, and their thoughts are always laced with each other."

Starting in 2011, Percy and Sam savor summers together in the quaint Canadian town. After years of friendship, things take a romantic turn. But when Sam is overwhelmed with his college workload, he breaks up with Percy – and that's where things take a turn.

Matt Cornett is Sam and Sadie Soverall is Percy. PROVIDED BY CATE CAMERON/PRIME

What did Percy do? Is it forgivable in the actors' eyes?

Utterly heartbroken after the breakup, Percy sleeps with Sam's older brother, Charlie Florek (Michael Bradway). Soverall says she can understand the emotions that led to her character's decision.

"I think she was coming from a place of a lot of frustration and a lot of hurt and a lot of darkness," she says.

"And I think in that summer, Charlie was like the sun for her. He was there for her, he distracted her, and was really kind. … I think they were both feeling very lost, and they found a lot of solace in each other."

Percy and Charlie vowed to keep their indiscretion a secret.

But it comes to light when Percy returns to Barry's Bay, after being away for a decade, to attend the funeral of Sam and Charlie's mom, Sue Florek (Elisha Cuthbert).

Sam's feelings return after spending time with Percy, and he breaks up with his girlfriend, Taylor (Roan Curtis), whom he thought he would propose to. When he tries to rekindle things with Percy, she comes clean, and Sam is devastated by their dalliance.

The blow to Sam's relationship with his brother and future with Percy "immediately sends him into probably the darkest place he's ever been in his life," Cornett, 27, tells USA TODAY. "He has a full-on spiral, and it's something that is really hard for him to pull himself out of and to move past."

Do Percy and Sam end up together?

In the finale, Sam and Percy have sex after his mom's service, but he quickly tells her that they have no future.

"I do want so much to forgive you," Sam says, "but I don't think I can do this."

Attempting to reconnect might've been Sam's way of testing the waters, Cornett says.

"Being like, 'Let's see if I can even attempt to try and have something without thinking about it,' " he says. "And I think, in that moment, it is still too fresh for Sam, and I think that he realizes that."

Sam and Percy reunite later in the finale, after she has spruced up his mom's tavern bequeathed to Percy. "You came home," Percy says.

The two exchange wide smiles but no further words.

What does the finale mean? Will there be a Season 2?

From Cornett's perspective, Sam "comes back wanting to follow his heart."

"I think even though he's had this time to think about it and sit with the Percy and Charlie of it all, I think that he still is like, 'I can't get over this girl.' And this is my person," he says.

"And I want to show her that I'm willing to show up and entertain the idea of a conversation and hopefully be able to start over and explore the opportunity of being friends again."

Ultimately, Cornett says, the hope is that it may lead "to something more" between Percy and Sam.

Ahead of a second season, which has yet to be green-lighted, Cornett is hoping for a reconciliation between Percy and Sam – one that portrays a rebuilding of their friendship.

"I think that they both have hurt each other in different ways, and so I think that those conversations need to be had," he says, noting that they also need to discuss "starting from the beginning and starting somewhere fresh and new and creating a new version of who Sam and Percy are going to be."

"I think that they need to be friends again first," Cornett adds, "before they can even entertain the idea of fully, fully diving into loving each other again."

Soverall is on board for things heating up down the road.

"Oh, absolutely," she says. "I think they are meant for each other."

Public Notices

Public Notices are a permanent and independent record of government and court actions. These include state and local government meetings, rule making, available contracts, zoning changes, and many more, as required by law. In addition, parties to some court proceedings, such as foreclosures, probate, and estate actions are required to publish notices to ensure notification of affected parties, as well as the general public. These notices also alert business owners, large and small, to potential government contractual jobs, helping to ensure economic activity across a level playing field. Public notices have existed to ensure transparency in all levels of government since the founding of the United States.

State and local notices are published in Maine newspapers and are also recorded at mainenotices.com, where anyone can browse or search notices, and sign up to receive email alerts when relevant notices appear.

Public Input for Rules

A list of state agency rule proposals is published here each Wednesday. You can get a copy of a proposed rule by contacting the person listed in the notice. You can comment on a proposed rule by submitting a written comment to the agency or by attending the public hearing, if one is scheduled. If no hearing is scheduled, you can request one. The agency must hold a hearing if it receives 5 or more requests. If you have a disability and need assistance to participate in a hearing you should tell the agency at least 7 days before the hearing. ONLINE INFORMATION Weekly notices, full text of adopted rules, and a list of agency rulemaking contacts are available at this website: https://www.maine.gov/sos/cec/rules/index.html

PROPOSALS

AGENCY: Department of Health and Human Services, Office for Family Independence
CHAPTER NUMBER AND RULE TITLE: 10-144 C.M.R. Ch. 609, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program Employment and Training (SNAP E&T) Rules [Sections 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, and 8; SNAP E&T #9 – Participant Supports Update]
TYPE OF RULE: Routine Technical
PROPOSAL FILING NUMBER: 2026-P154
BRIEF SUMMARY: The Department proposes updates to 10-144 C.M.R. Ch. 609; Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program – Employment and Training (SNAP E&T) rules to ensure consistency with other Department of Health and Human Services, Office for Family Independence Employment and Training programs. Section 4 (III)(B) would provide clarity that the most cost-effective approach reasonable for the Participant's Individualized Employment Plan (IEP) must be selected for institutions charging tuition. In addition, Section 4(III)(B) would add clarifying language that sets parameters for tuition reimbursement. Further, the proposed rule would make non-substantive changes to correct typographical errors, improve readability, and provide clarifying language for readers, participants, and Department staff.
PUBLIC HEARING: No public hearing is scheduled.
COMMENT DEADLINE: Monday, July 20, 2026, at 5:00 p.m. Eastern Time. Written public comments may be submitted via the link at https://www.maine.gov/dhhs/about/rulemaking.

AGENCY: Maine Public Employees Retirement System
CHAPTER NUMBER AND RULE TITLE: 94-411 C.M.R. Ch. 506, Eligibility for Disability Retirement Benefits
TYPE OF RULE: Routine Technical
PROPOSAL FILING NUMBER: 2026-P155
BRIEF SUMMARY: This chapter sets forth the standards and processes for determining eligibility for disability retirement benefits. The proposed amended rule chapter implements changes enacted in PL 2025, c. 598 and clarifies that a member reinstated to service under certain conditions is considered to have been in service throughout the period of reinstatement.
